About the Author

Hi! I'm Jessica, a Stockholm-based author specializing in romantasy, where love and magic intertwine in richly imagined worlds. With a passion for storytelling that blends epic fantasy with heart-stirring romance, I craft tales filled with powerful heroines, enchanting realms, and slow-burn relationships that linger long after the final page. My stories are inspired by everything from Nordic folklore and ancient ruins to the quiet moments of everyday magic. I'm drawn to characters who are strong yet vulnerable, navigating both inner battles and epic quests, all while discovering the courage to follow their hearts.

When I'm not writing, you'll find me exploring cozy bookstores, sipping tea in hidden cafés, or getting lost in the pages of my next favorite novel. I also have a slight obsession with notebooks, dramatic playlists, and forest walks that feel like stepping into another world.

A stolen artifact. A kingdom on the brink of darkness. A reluctant alliance between a runaway princess and a rogue thief. As they race against time to restore balance, forbidden feelings threaten to unravel everything. But some oaths demand more than they ever expected to give.

Peace was never meant to last. With war on the horizon and a hidden power awakening, the battle for the throne is only beginning. Magic, betrayal, and destiny collide as an exiled heir must decide what they are willing to sacrifice—for the crown, for the kingdom, and for love.
